

A daily e-mail bulletin of Czech wit & wisdom. For your free subscription, write to subscribe@fsfinalword.com

Insulting voters

Tomáš Klvaňa told MFD that he took the job of radar coordinator because he considers the issue to be one of the CR's biggest foreign-policy priorities since the revolution. Some critics don't think his intentions are so honorable. Some question his patriotism and say he has "sold out" to the Americans. Others accuse him of a conflict of interest, because he's still officially on the payroll of British American Tobacco. We're more forgiving on these two counts and consider Klvaňa's handling of discussions with voters to be his bigger shortcoming. Klvaňa has essentially told some of those who oppose the radar that they're stupid. Klvaňa isn't a politician (yet), but he should know that successful public figures always go out of their way to avoid insulting voters, no matter how stupid the voters might be. If Klvaňa wants his government career to go anywhere, he'll need to find a way to apologize.

Thank you, Fujitsu Siemens Computers!
Thank you, Mr. & Mrs. President Václav Klaus!
Thank you, potential buyers of our charity rarity!

A limited number of design computers autographed by President Václav Klaus and donated by Fujitsu Siemens Computers are for sale. The proceeds will help the Bone Marrow Transplant Foundation in Pilsen, whose patron is First Lady Livia Klausová. This charity rarity sells for CZK 60,000 each.

Serious buyers please contact iva.dryakova@bm.com