

Epic Prague ODS

ODS still needs to be saved from itself, esp. in Prague. Václav Klaus jumped into the fray this week over the attempted move of Alfons Mucha's Slavic Epic from Moravský Krumlov to Prague, and his concern about the outcome of the upcoming municipal elections in the capital is one possible explanation for his action. If ODS does poorly in Oct. and TOP 09 is able to install Zdeněk Tůma as mayor, not only will the business model at Prague city hall be jeopardized, but so might the succession at the Castle. Tůma, like Karel Schwarzenberg, would become a viable candidate for president in 2013, giving the power center headed by Zdeněk Bakala - and including Václav Havel - a significant chance to reclaim the presidency. No one expects Klaus to roll over and play dead when he leaves office, so it's logical to assume that he and his handlers will want to do whatever possible to keep Tůma's mayoral chances down. Which means that for once, ODS in Prague needs to think a bit more about political strategy than the usual profit-taking.

IMAGINE MORE
WITH YOUR PERSONAL STRATEGY COACH

The Insider's Guide to Coaching for Managers and Business Owners

How to get the most out of coaching – and your life

ABR Executive Coaching
Annette B. Reissfelder, Ph.D.
Individual coaching, corporate coaching, executive coaching for women
Tel: +49 (0)89 - 515 7400 Fax: +49 (0)89 - 515 7417 Mobile: +49 (0)89 - 97 93 517
Website: www.abr-coaching.com
© 2010 Annette B. Reissfelder - All Rights Reserved

A comprehensive, in-depth look into the coaching relationship that should be on the desk of every forward thinking professional.

Click here to visit the website and order your free copy