

Deliverance from conspiracy

Like his boss Václav Klaus, Petr Hájek is someone Czechs either love or hate. It's a pity that Hájek is so readily dismissed by so many, because he has something to teach anyone willing to listen. His world view is unusual for someone so high up the hierarchy. In a book to be published on the anniversary of the Bolshevik Revolution (Nov. 7), he'll talk about how the

Velvet Revolution was a broad conspiracy against freedom and about how Václav Havel was a Marxist who was groomed over a long period to help carry out a further attack on Christian values, like the French and Bolshevik "revolutions" before it. The Soviet version of totalitarianism was a piece of cake compared to what stands before us, he told Parlamentní listy. The obvious question is why he is telling us this. After all, he has been part of this "conspiracy" for years, as deputy head of Klaus's office. Has Hájek finally seen the light? Or, more likely, will his book Death in Velvet be a guide to how Klaus and his post-presidential team plan to deliver us from this conspiracy?

November 12th, 2012
Clarion Congress Hotel, Prague

CEE's Premier Event on

ELECTRONIC EVIDENCE
COMPUTER FORENSICS
LEGAL TECHNOLOGY

Sponsors

Main Media Partners

epravo.cz PRÁVNÍ
RÁDCE

Media Partners

- fleet sheet's final word

Register on:

www.lawtecheuropecongress.com