

A daily e-mail bulletin of Czech wit & wisdom. For your free subscription, write to subscribe@fsfinalword.com

Monika in cuffs

Whether he's sitting in jail on election day or not, Andrej Babiš will be a free man in Prague soon thereafter. His immunity will kick in again upon reelection, and the police will have to remove the handcuffs, figuratively or perhaps literally speaking. Not so for the storkess of the nest. Monika Babišová doesn't have immunity, and the non-ČSSD-controlled police could decide that another in no way politically motivated method not to put any pressure whatsoever on the top čáp is to snare his mate in a dragnet. Babiš is already appalled at the gall (or is it gull?) of his enemies. How could they pull poor Monika into this? "All made men know that civilians are to be kept out of our mafia disputes." And then he answered his own question. "My wife only owned Stork's Nest shares for a few weeks and then sold them to her brother. What's illegal about that? Family members can't sell shares?" Sure they can, but once they join the "business," they're no longer civilians.

Read this later today in Czech  Find us on Facebook

Pre-election Debate | Lucerna 12/9 at 5 pm

Andrej Babiš (ANO), Lubomír Zaorálek (ČSSD),
Jiří Dolejš (KSČM), Zbyněk Stanjura (ODS),
Pavel Bělobrádek (KDU-ČSL), Miroslav Kalousek (TOP 09)

Get registered for member price CZK 700 + VAT
Limited offer: get 1+1 for free
Email your registration to pavel.fara@britcham.cz

www.britcham.cz