

How to remove Babiš

Neurologist Martin Jan Stránský wrote in MFD on Sat. that it's time to remove Donald Trump for his own good and ours. When the world's most powerful person has such a destructive neuropsychiatric profile, he said, there's too much at stake to ignore it. Stránský didn't mention Andrej Babiš this time, but he wrote in 2023 that Babiš is completely unbalanced and meets the definition of a clinical psychopath. Editor-in-chief Petr Šabata of Právo wrote on July 24 that if Babiš decides to run for president again, it will mean he's lost his sense of judgment more than at any other time in his political career. Petr Honzejek of HN said that there's clearly something going on with Babiš, because he's starting to lose his way on key issues. ANO isn't a normal party that could give Babiš feedback and replace him, Honzejek said, so we can only wait for him to recognize when it's time for him to leave. Maybe not. Petr Kolář, a consultant to Pres. Petr Pavel, told Seznam Zprávy (26:25) that Babiš might not realize that Art. 62 of the Constitution about appointing and removing the PM and ministers doesn't require a co-signature. Babiš needs to start toning things down, Kolář said.
